Final Call for the World Guinness Records Attempt!

FIDE is delighted to announce that the World Guinness Records attempt for the most chess games played within 24 hours has garnered incredible global participation! So far, we have 201 tournaments from 53 countries registered and joining us in the attempt to set a new milestone for the chess world! This is your last week to join this historic event as an organizer.

Setting a new world record in chess is a global initiative, and exciting events in various formats are happening across continents. From a simultaneous exhibition at the picturesque Château d'Asnières in France, to rapid-fire blitz tournaments like the Chess Knight Academy's 15th Blitz Chess Tournament in India and major classical events like the Biel Chess Festival in Switzerland, there's something for everyone.

No matter the size of your tournament, we invite you to be a part of history. Don't miss this opportunity – register your event by the end of the week.

The registration of the tournaments participating in the GUINNESS WORLD RECORDS Attempt is available via the official FIDE Guinness World Record Attempt page. <https://100.fide.com/gwr/>

Registration deadline: July 15, 2024

About the Guinness World Records

Guinness World Records, originally known as the Guinness Book of Records, has emerged as the definitive authority on record-breaking achievements, stemming from the idea of resolving disputes in pubs with a book of facts. Today, it stands as a global brand, with offices spanning London, New York, Beijing, Tokyo, and Dubai, alongside a network of brand ambassadors worldwide. Its mission extends beyond the pages of its iconic book, now encompassing TV shows, social media, and live events, all aimed at documenting the extraordinary.
